In large numbers, to assist in preserving order.

In the morning about half of the participants in the demonstrations appeared to be discharged soldiers, but as the day progressed and the shipyard workers joined the crowds at noon the former enlisted men, both in and out of uniform, decreased in numbers.

In impromptu parades being held on the downtown streets tonight by shouting men hardly a uniform was to be seen.

One crowd of about 500 men marched defiantly past the central police station tonight. At the head was a man carrying an American flag. Behind him an immense American flag was upheld at the four corners and edges by a score of marchers, while sign bearing the words, "If we can't sell tags, throw your money in here," invited spectators to toss coins upon the blanket of stars and stripes. Apparently but few availed themselves of the opportunity.

it was announced here tonight.

Permanent organization of the American Legion, which its sponsors hope will become the one powerful body of veterans of the world war, will be effected at a meeting in St. Louis May 1.

Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt is chairman of the "preliminary committee," which is arranging the organization convention.

The agreement merging the world war veterans into the legion, it was announced, was brought about by the efforts of Captain Archibald Roosevelt.
